

WANT PLACE ON FOOTBALL BODY

Preparatory Schools Believe That They Should Receive Recognition on Rules Committee.

P. M. SEIXAS IS SUGGESTED

Has Formulated Plan to Prevent Injuries Which Has Been Submitted to President.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NEW YORK, January 8.—Members of preparatory schools believe that they should be represented on the Intercollegiate Football Committee, and with that end in view are planning to select one of their number for the place. They point to the fact that nearly all of the star players come from the preparatory schools, and that, in all justice, they should receive recognition on the committee controlling the sport in this country.

Among those whose names have been suggested for the position is P. M. Seixas, of this city, who has coached Trinity, Dwight and New York Military Academy teams. Mr. Seixas has advanced a plan for reform in football, which, he says, will do away with injuries to players. The plan has been submitted to President Roosevelt. According to this system what is now called the secondary defense would be eliminated.

"I am sure that my plan would remedy the present evils of the game," said Mr. Seixas yesterday. "In the twelve years that I have coached football teams not one of my players has been injured enough to keep him out of the game. Injuries to players, I found, were caused by the secondary defense, and in consequence it seemed advisable to do away with it. These injuries were caused by one man trying to stop the entire opposing back field after an opening had been made by the line men.

"With my way of playing there are no players behind the line. The line men must stand at least twenty-five yards back. The men used by other teams in the back field on defense, I place on the line, filling up all the holes through which plays are usually directed. This style of defense has time and again bewildered the line men on opposing teams while trying to advance the ball. With the open style of play, ten yards to gain on each down, and allowing only one man to tackle a player holding or running with the ball, the ball, when a player is in possession of it, shall be dead and the referee shall then blow the whistle. This would stop all piling on and much rougher play. The secondary defense is left to the men backing up the line. The one on the defense must take punishment when a hole is made in the line, because he receives the full impetus of the entire back field when in motion."

DAN PATCH AND CRESCUS TO GO AFTER RECORDS

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

LEXINGTON, KY., January 8.—M. W. Savage is authority for the statement that both his great racers, Crescus and Dan Patch, will try for new records this season. In a letter received here by Secretary H. Wilson, Mr. Savage says: "I believe Dan Patch has a feeling that if given a chance on your track next year, 1:51-4 is in great danger. Both Crescus and Dan Patch will be out for new records in 1906, and up to date, everything looks very favorable."

Crescus, many horsemen believe, with careful training may be able to beat Lou Dillon's world record.

ORGANIZER OF BROOKLYN BASEBALL CLUB IS DEAD

Jos. J. Doyle, Sporting Man and Politician, Dies at His White Plains Hotel.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., January 8.—Joseph J. Doyle died here to-day at the Elberon Hotel after a short illness from pneumonia. For fifteen years he was proprietor of the Elberon Hotel, which is patronized by leading New York politicians.

He was born in New York city on April 9, 1838, and fifty years of his life were spent there. He was one of the leading men in sporting circles. He conducted the first walking matches ever held in Madison Square Garden.

For several years he was president of the Brooklyn League Baseball Club, which he organized and controlled. Upon his retirement from the base-ball business he passed the control of the club to his brother-in-law, the late Charles Byrne, of Brooklyn.

He was a member of the old Volunteer Fire Department of New York and one of the oldest members of the Tammany Society. He was a close friend of the late John Kelly when he was leader of Tammany Hall.

HOTELS CLOSED TO "PHILADELPHIA JACK"

The Waldorf Refuses Puggist. Netherlands Says "Go"—Registers as "Mr. Hagen."

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NEW YORK, January 8.—"Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien, accompanied by his sister and his valet, arrived yesterday with a truckload of baggage at the Waldorf-Astoria. The conqueror of Robert Fitzsimmons went up to the register, said, "How-do-you-do" to the clerk and reached his room. He then inserted his real name, J. F. Hagen. The clerk told him that there must be some mistake in his impression that rooms had been engaged for him in advance, and that the hotel was so crowded that it would be utterly impossible to properly accommodate him.

The prize fighter did not "smell a rat." With his mother and sister he had been a guest of the hotel on several occasions. The bell boys and porters were all for shaking him by the hand, if they could, but discipline is discipline, and a job is a job, even if it is a spring-like winter. The puglist, drawing on the glove with all the ease of a gentleman, working his fingers into the glove, one by one, and then the thumb, not showing his whole hand into the glove as the fighter does waiting for his seconds to push back the padding over the knuckles, remarked:

"Now, that is too bad. Here we are with our luggage. Maybe we can get lodging at the Cambridge."

Declared It a Mistake.

Just then the puglist's manager came to his side, explaining that there had been a mistake, and that he would see to it that it would not be repeated. He went to the telephone and called up Netherlands, asking for a suite of rooms for Mr. Hagen, sister, and a room for the valet, saying that they would soon be there. The puglist and his party then drove to the big brown hotel at the entrance to Central Park and Fifth Avenue. He told the clerk that he was Mr. Hagen and so registered.

Before long the men of the newspapers began to arrive. They asked for Mr. O'Brien, of Philadelphia.

"No such person," said the clerk.

One of the reporters unwisely blurted out the fact that Mr. Hagen's name was on the register, that Hagen was "Philadelphia Jack," and that was the man they wanted to see. The manager of the hotel appeared at this moment from his private office, and when apprised of the fact that the puglist was one of his guests he sent a bellboy to O'Brien to please step down to the office a moment. When "Philadelphia Jack" appeared he was told politely that the Netherlands Hotel did not care to entertain him any longer.

Retires to Think It Over.

"I don't want to cause you any trouble," said O'Brien to the manager, with the blue eyes of the hotel baby, "but I am in fighters' eyes. I don't want to be where I don't belong, but I do want to stand on my rights. I have done you no wrong other than to pay for your hospitality. I am going to my room to consider what I ought to do."

In his room he told his friends that this was the hardest blow he had ever received in his life, almost as bad as the one he received in a fight some years ago.

"Why, this afternoon," he continued, "when I came into the hotel baby, I was at me and held out its hands. Like dogs, they know a decent fellow, and I am not boasting. I do not drink, nor smoke, nor swear, but I do fight as a profession. It is an age when every man should do the best he knows how in whatever calling he chooses, and I have done my best in mine. Played honestly, it is as honest and decent a game as there is. Men like Jim Corbett and I have elevated it. The game ought to be so clean that woman and children could go to see it, but the trouble is that they can't. We have to fight, striped and not like football men covered with leather and pads. It is not a bit rougher. Every man who is not ashamed of himself in his heart must have a fight some time, and it is true men like the prize fighters that they can learn to protect themselves."

Will Stay Until After Breakfast.

Mr. Hagen summoned the manager and told him that he would leave with his sister in the morning. He did not propose to be put out at night to seek a new lodging. He said that he would take dinner and breakfast in his rooms, and to be sure to have five fresh raw eggs ready for him before breakfast, the best food in the world for a healthy person.

Two New York Shows and A. A. Meetings Will Keep Them on the Jump.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NEW YORK, January 8.—Two automobile shows open in this city on Saturday—one at Madison Square Garden and the other in the new Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory. Both will remain open until the following Saturday night, and during "show week" the American Automobile Association will hold several meetings.

The Racing Board will hold a session on Monday, January 15th, at which a complete report will be made on the finances of the Vanderbilt Cup race. At this meeting the well known automobilists, among them President Elliot C. Lee, Winthrop E. Searritt, Judge William H. Hotchkiss, Judge James B. Dill, A. B. Shattuck and H. Lee Moore, will speak upon various phases of automobilizing.

Committee meetings will round out the week, and it is expected that a large number of out-of-town motorists will visit New York city because of the importance of the meetings, the interest in the shows and the reduced railroad rates.

ROGERS WAS NOT FROM MISSOURI

leges, have combined to stifle competition in Missouri. Mr. Hadley pressed a question with much insistence and demanded answers without evasions.

Defies Missouri Court.

"Do you mean to say to the Supreme Court of Missouri that you do not know where the offices of the company, in which you are a director, are located?" asked Mr. Hadley.

"It is immaterial to me what the Supreme Court of Missouri expects me to say," replied Mr. Rogers.

When Mr. Rogers went on the stand this forenoon a photographer temporarily broke up the proceedings and drove him out of the room by burning a flashlight to get a picture of him. It filled the room with smoke, and Mr. Rogers was excused until a later hour.

H. D. Hardcastle, who was formerly employed in the Albany agency of the Standard Oil Company, was Mr. Hadley's chief witness to-day.

He testified to instances in which he was transferred from the Standard Oil Company's employ to that of the Republic Oil Company, at Cleveland, and of the Atlantic Refining Company, at Philadelphia.

Got Ticket of Leave.

These transfers, he said, were made by officers or employees of the Standard Oil Company, and one of them told him he must not be known in Cleveland as having been employed by the Standard Company. Witness had some letters, he said, from Standard Oil men, which he was induced to surrender to Walter Jennings, of the Standard Oil Company, in the hope of getting a better position, but he received a ticket for Europe without a return coupon.

Mr. Rogers was testifying when the hearing adjourned to-day.

After the adjournment Attorney-General Hadley's attention was called to some published advice to him concerning the proceeding at Cleveland, and, of Boston, and he was asked:

"Do you want Mr. Lawson to come down here and testify in this case?"

"Certainly. If Mr. Lawson knows anything, I should like to have him come down," said Mr. Hadley.

MR. HILL INJURED.

Foot Caught in Wire Dragging Behind a Cart.

Mr. G. Powell Hill, who has resided in Richmond more than 40 years, and has his office at 12 East Main Street, who was pulled by a cart last Monday morning, was proceeding down Main Street, just before he reached Adams Street, two excavators, one driven by negro boys, passed up the latter street in the direction of Franklin. Both carts had cleared the flagging of the crossing before Mr. Hill could get out of the way. As Mr. Hill was about to cross the street, he was struck by the cart, which was being pulled by a negro boy. The cart was unable to free himself, his foot was caught under him and he was dragged several feet before he succeeded in making the driver of the cart stop his mule. Several gentlemen, passing along Main Street, came quickly to his assistance and released him from the wire and placed him on the curb. Others who were also offered assistance, if needed. Finding that Mr. Hill could not stand on his feet, three gentlemen—Messrs. J. W. Moore and a young man, who was driving the city gas or water bills, assisted Mr. Hill to his office and phoned for his car. A physician called in to ascertain the extent of injury. The diagnosis developed that no bones were broken, but a very severe wrench or twist at the knee. The doctor procured a splint and with the assistance of Mr. J. W. Ellyson, took his father home and placed him in bed.

It is the second time Mr. Hill has been a victim of an accident. Seven or eight years ago, he had his right leg broken and ankle joint crushed by the collision of a runaway horse with a Hanover vegetable cart, standing in front of his residence, near the corner of Main and Madison. The first accident was caused by a runaway horse which was driven by Mr. Hill a cripple for life and necessitates his wearing a brace on that leg.

There is no question or doubt in his mind, he says, that the brace he had on at the time of the second mishap saved that leg from being broken. It was the loop of the wire, caught him around the ankle about the point of the fracture.

As to Newspaper Names.

"I make a study of the names of newspapers," said an eccentric man. "Rare names I hail with joy. Common ones I despise. The commonest name of all is probably Times; what town hasn't it? Times? Other common names are Chronicle, Express, Tribune, Post, Star, Sun, Republican, Democrat, News, Press, Herald, Advertiser, Telegraph and so on. Any other name is the Epitaph of Towns. Star, Arizona. Other odd names are the Puntatunney Spirit, the Barasack, of Pittsburgh, the Jean Baptiste, of Pawtucket, the Greenville Cotton Plant, the Luxie Miller, of Nashville, the Austin Firm Foundation, the Opera Glass, of Galveston, the Norfolk Cornucopia, the Packages, of Milwaukee, the Get, of Williamsport.
